A Night of Fabulous Local Talent!

The Hope and Justin Band

Camarillo residents Hope and Justin Schneir showed up at Camarillo Café one night, played a song for us, and instantly won our hearts. Hope and Justin have been playing music together since the night they met in college. More than 10 years later, they are still at it with some incredibly talented friends who now make up The Hope and Justin Band. It's basically what happens in their living room...homegrown music with lots of soul: Everything you loved about 70's folk and bluegrass with a modern vibe. Since the 2013 release of their second album Eastern Bound, they were selected as "New Folk Finalists" at the Kerrville Folk Festival and awarded "Best Folk Song" in the West Coast Songwriter's Competition. The Hope and Justin Band features Sean Wood of "Celtic Spring" on fiddle, Daniel Bagdazian on bass, Samantha Harvey of "Sam and Ash" on accordion and piano, and Jeff

Evans of "The Mini Bar Project" and "Blimp" on percussion. Visit www.facebook.com/hopeandjustin for more!

Jackie Morris

, a crowd favorite at Camarillo Café and other Southern California venues for many years, combines the sound of vintage folk/Americana with very contemporary themes. Jackie's music represents a lively patchwork of styles – from good-time blues, ballads, and bluegrass to country-western and folk-rock. "Despite the different stylings," Jackie says, "each song shares a common ground - my heart." As listeners often point out, "You can hear the smile in these songs." Jackie's three critically-acclaimed CDs will soon be joined by a fourth, and all will be available for sale at this show. Rebecca Troon (who has headlined here in the past) (vocal harmony, banjo & percussion) and Tom Lee (bass) will provide delightful accompaniment. "Jackie Morris is a fabulous songwriter....(She) plays folk music that's informed by a wealth of different styles, with lyrics that are in turn touching, funny, poignant and authentic...Her voice is exceedingly pleasant...She has a wealth of songwriting talent that can't stay hidden for long." - Wildy Haskell - Wildy's World.
