Spectacular Special Bluegrass Show Starring Loafer's Glory

With the ever advancing technology in the music process, it's refreshing to know that one band on the music scene is more into the development of good solid live performances than the pyrotechnics that go with today's new look at country music and its by-products. That band is Loafer's Glory, an amalgam of four acclaimed professionals who together produce "hair-raising harmonies and powerhouse picking!"

Herb Pedersen is an alumnus of legendary bands The Dillard's, Country Gazette, The Desert Rose Band, The Laurel Canyon Ramblers, Old & In The Grey, Chris Hillman with Tony & Larry Rice, Here Today, and Vern & Ray. He also played with The Foggy Mountain Boys for a time, subbing for Earl Scruggs back in the late 60s. Herb is a guitar wizard, a great singer and a gifted songwriter.

Bill Bryson has, over the past 40 odd years, contributed his talents to some of the best bands in the business, such as Bluegrass Etc., The Bluegrass Cardinals, The Desert Rose Band, Country Gazette and The Laurel Canyon Ramblers. He's not only a great upright bass player, but also an accomplished old time banjo player and an amazing singer/songwriter. Oh, and he's pretty funny too.

Tom Sauber has been in the forefront of the traditional old-time music scene for more years than he cares to admit. An accomplished fiddle and 5-string banjo player, he has appeared on countless recording projects and movie soundtracks, and has a healthy teaching schedule to boot. Tom's love of the music has brightened up many sessions and performances with people like Alice Gerrard, Mike Seeger, Dirk Powell and Mark Graham.

Patrick Sauber, Tom's son, came to essentially the same musical background as his dad. He's one of those astounding multi-instrumentalists who feels as at home on the 5-string as he does on the mandolin and guitar. Patrick works occasionally with Laurie Lewis, the Bladerunners and now with Loafer's Glory, adding a punch musically & vocally that everybody's talking about.
